

Other Ways to Participate in Downtown Midland Redevelopment Process

Pop-Up Workshop

Friday, June 3 - Drop in on SmithGroupJJR between 11:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. at 144 Ashman Street, the former downtown Post Office and most recently Serendipity 181. Stop by to chat with designers and talk about your wants and desires for the downtown Midland redevelopment plan.

Follow-Up Public Input Session

Thursday, June 23, 6 p.m. until 8 p.m. Follow up public input session. SmithGroupJJR will present plan ideas based on initial public and stakeholder input. This will be an interactive workshop designed to solicit feedback on alternative plans, view plan renderings, perspective views, diagrams, etc. Watch for further information on location.

Pop-Up Work Session

Friday, June 24, 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. - SmithGroupJJR will be working in downtown Midland refining preferred plans, documenting ideas into a single plan and developing a set of improvement goals. This will be a public open house format, drop by while the team is working to view designs and give comment. Watch for further information on location.

Online Engagement

Give feedback on various downtown topics through E-CityHall, a new online public engagement platform introduced by the City of Midland. You will be able to review concepts and communicate your feedback to provide input to the process. Visit the E-CityHall at: <http://bit.ly/1NSvK6y>. Select the link for more information on E-CityHall and sign up to receive email notifications as E-CityHall topics are posted.

There is an E-CityHall survey waiting for you now!

Get to it via: <http://bit.ly/1NSvK6y>

Follow the progress of the downtown Midland streetscape redevelopment through the “Recent News” section found on the city of Midland home page at www.cityofmidlandmi.gov/downtowndevelopment and through the Downtown Midland Facebook page.

For questions or more information contact the Downtown Development Authority Office at 989-837-3330 or email: stisdale@midland-mi.org